

Rating Action: Moody's assigns Aa2 to New Mexico's GO Bonds, Series 2023; outlook stable

30 Mar 2023

New York, March 30, 2023 -- Moody's Investors Service has assigned a Aa2 rating to the State of New Mexico's $233.3 million Capital Projects General Obligation Bonds, Series 2023. Post issuance, the state will have approximately $550.9 million of General Obligation Bonds outstanding, all rated Aa2. The state's issuer rating is also Aa2. The outlook is stable.

RATINGS RATIONALE

New Mexico's Aa2 issuer rating and Aa2 general obligation bond rating reflect the state's sovereign powers, strong financial management, and a sound financial position that has strengthened in recent years with robust growth in oil- and gas-related revenues. The ratings also reflect the state's below average socioeconomic profile, lagging demographic trends, as well as economic dependency on the oil and gas industry. The state's revenues are more volatile than average due to the significance of oil- and gas-related revenues, although this has been partially mitigated by revenue stabilization mechanisms introduced in recent years as well as stable investment income from two large permanent funds. The ratings further incorporate the state's moderate direct long-term liabilities and fixed costs, but large indirect K-12 pension liabilities, since New Mexico K-12 school districts are primarily funded by the state.

RATING OUTLOOK

New Mexico's stable outlook reflects the expectation that the state's finances will remain healthy, supported by strong budget discipline. Long-term liabilities are expected to remain manageable, with increasing pension contributions and conservative debt issuance practices.

FACTORS THAT COULD LEAD TO AN UPGRADE OF THE RATING

- Sustained growth and diversification of the economy
- Strengthened socioeconomic profile and demographic trends
- Significant progress in reducing direct and indirect pension liabilities

FACTORS THAT COULD LEAD TO A DOWNGRADE OF THE RATING

- Economic deterioration that leads to material revenue declines, budget imbalance, liquidity pressures or a narrower reserve position
- Significant increase in leverage and fixed costs

LEGAL SECURITY

New Mexico's general obligation bonds are secured by the full faith and credit of the state and specifically secured by, and paid from, a statewide property tax levy without limit as to rate. The treasurer is required to keep the property tax proceeds separate from all other funds. The payment of general obligation bonds from other than ad valorem taxes collected for that purpose requires an appropriation by the legislature. If at any point there is not a sufficient amount of money from ad valorem taxes to make a required payment of principal or interest on state general obligation bonds, the governor may call a special session of the legislature to secure an appropriation sufficient to make the payment. The state's practice is to levy the tax in advance so that debt service is pre-funded by 12 months.

USE OF PROCEEDS

The Capital Projects General Obligation Bonds, Series 2023 will finance certain senior citizen facility improvements, construction and equipment acquisitions, certain library acquisitions, and capital improvements and acquisitions at certain institutions of higher education, state special schools and tribal schools.

PROFILE

New Mexico has a population of 2.1 million. Its nominal GDP was $109.6 billion in 2021. The state's wealth levels are below average, with per capita personal income equal to 87.2% of the US level after adjusting for regional cost of living. The state is the second-largest producer of crude oil and a top-10 producer of natural gas in the US.
